A crash refers to a sudden dramatic loss in value of the market, which can last for hours or years. Generally, market crashes when a large number of investors invest in the stock market to such an extent that the market becomes overvalued. This is often followed by a sharp decline in prices, leading to significant losses for investors. The crash of 2008 is a notable example, where the value of the S&P 500 index fell by over 50% in a matter of months. Other examples include the dot-com bubble burst in 2000 and the Asian financial crisis in 1997. The crash of 2015, when the Chinese stock market fell sharply, is another recent example. The crash of 2020, caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, was particularly severe, with the S&P 500 index dropping by over 30% in a matter of weeks.
